10,000 Families Leave Homes As Flood Increases

War Plants Closed, Red Cross and Militia Enlisted In Relief Service

With 10,000 families forced to leave their homes in cities along the Ohio river and its tributaries Tuesday, the flood throughout the Ohio, Cumberland, Tennessee and Mississippi river valleys Wednesday presented the most dangerous threat to life and property since the great inundation of 1937.

At Eddyville, five business houses in the lowest places on Main street quit business last weekend, with water in the street at a point in the center of town and at the east limit. Several families also have been forced to vacate their dwellings.

The Cumberland began falling at Eddyville Saturday and continued a slow decline through Wednesday, dropping .3 of a foot in the 24 hours ending that morning. It was expected to rise again however when the effect of heavy rains which fell in the upper reaches of the stream Tuesday are felt.

Train services on the Illinois Central line between Louisville and Paducah was ended Tuesday, but No. 104 went up Wednesday morning to Ft. Knox and was due to return as No. 101 late Wednesday afternoon. This service will be maintained, with Ft. Knox the northern terminal, until the flood recedes at West Point and in Louisville, C. S. Collier, train master here said.

Bus service through Princeton from Paducah to Louisville was reported continuing Wednesday, routed via Bowling Green. The other buses were on regular schedule, local stations reported, except the one from Princeton to Owensboro, which has been cancelled.

From the Ohio river's headwaters at Pittsburgh to points on the Mississippi, heavy rains caused flood waters to break out over lowlands and called into action hundreds of Red Cross workers, State militia and other relief agencies. The flood has already closed many war plants along the Ohio and seven deaths had been reported up to Wednesday noon.

The drop in temperature which came Tuesday served to halt the rain throughout most of the flooded area and predictions were the crest will be 10 or 11 feet under the high mark of the 1937 flood.

Elks' Convention, Set For July, Cancelled

The annual B.P.O. Elks Grand Lodge convention, scheduled to be held in New York City next July, has been cancelled to comply with the recent request of the War Mobilization director, Billie T. Grasham, exalted ruler of Princeton Lodge No. 1115, announced this week.

Princeton Man In Unique War Work

Crosby Brinkley Is Chief Of Army Microfilm Service

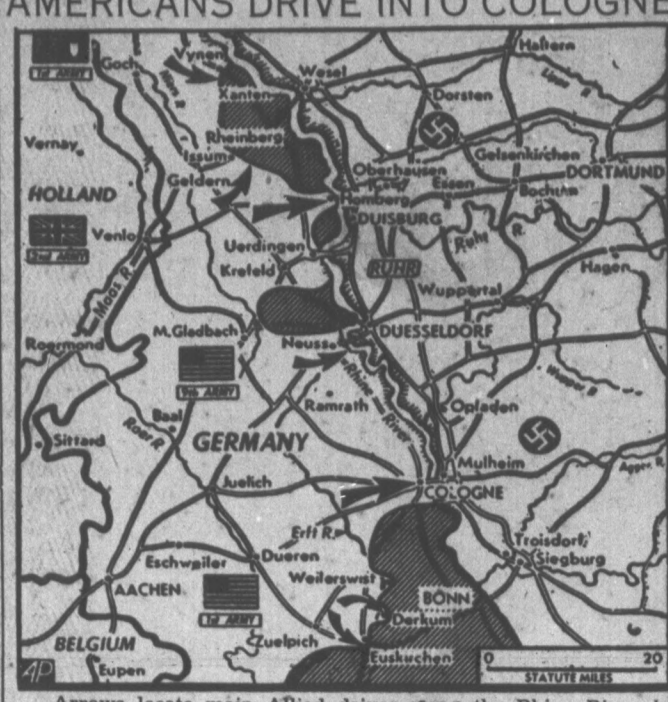

Crosby Brinkley, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Brinkley, Princeton, is doing vitally important war work as chief of the Photo Duplicating section of the Army Medical Library, Washington, D. C., engaged in making microfilms of recent medical developments for physicians and surgeons on the far-flung battle fronts, says the Washington Post.

When the Surgeon General's office receives requests for information on late techniques not yet published in the use of sulfa, penicillin, or other drugs, this data is cleared through the Photo Duplicating Service for microfilming.

Or, in combat theaters, where tropical medicine is involved the SGO may notify them of recent developments through the Army Medical Library and microfilms. This unusual service was started in 1940 and the Princeton man has been chief since its inception. The little known work was the subject of a lengthy article recently in the large Washington daily.

Mrs. Ross Thompson has returned home from a visit with relatives in Hopkinsville.

Urges Precaution Against Typhoid

Health Department Warns Persons In Flooded Areas

Because of heavy rains and floods, the State Health Department is urging people in this section of Kentucky to be inoculated against typhoid fever and Dr. W. L. Cash, acting health officer, has received a quantity of vaccine for this purpose.

Immunizations may be had at the Caldwell County Health Office in the courthouse, Dr. Cash said, or persons may consult their family physicians and obtain the inoculations.

The vaccine is regularly administered to children in all schools of the city and county, through the Health Department. Dr. P. E. Blackberry, State health commissioner, advised a dose of one-half cubic centimeter for individuals who have had a standard series of three doses within the last 2 years and urged that those who have not taken the standard treatment, do so now.

Services will be held twice daily, Mr. Denton said. The local church already has exceeded its quota in the Crusade's financial effort, it was announced this week.

250,000 Army Discharges Monthly Scheduled After Nazi Knockout

(By Associated Press)

Washington, Feb. 27—American families can expect a lot of their servicemen to start pouring home — 200,000 to 250,000 a month—once Hitler is out of the way.

About half of them are likely to be disabled, to small or large extent.

This was the big news today in a $2,453,177,125 supply bill turned over to the House by its appropriations committee. The money is to round out various agencies' expenses for the fiscal year ending June 30.

Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, head of the Veterans Administration, is authority for the Army's estimate. He quoted the War Department.

Clothing Campaign For War Victims Is Planned Here

Relief Organization Appeals For Apparel For Men, Women and Children During April

Princeton and Caldwell county will join with every other community during the month of April in a nation-wide campaign to collect and ship used clothing to the destitute peoples of Europe and organization of the city and county for this drive will begin at once, S. J. Lowry, chairman of the temporary group sponsoring this movement said Monday.

Mr. Lowry presided at a preliminary meeting held at the First National Bank which was attended by Mrs. C. H. Jagers, representing the Parent-Teachers Association; Sam Koltinsky, the Elks' Lodge; J. F. Graham, rural communities; Edw. F. Blackburn, county schools; Gordon Lisanby, Rotary Club, and G. M. Pedley, the press.

The clothing collection drive will be the only such effort made during 1945, Mr. Lowry said, and is expected to be on the same scope as the War Fund campaign, reaching every individual in every community throughout the country.

"More persons have died for want of heat and clothing, in the war-devastated countries of Europe than from direct enemy action," Mr. Lowry said he had been advised by United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, which is conducting the campaign through its clothing committee. "Also," he said, "the need for clothing will not be lessened by the coming of peace in the near future on the European battlefields, as it will be many months before the countries overrun by the German war machine can return to production of wearing apparel."

Clothing of every description is wanted, UNRA says, for men, women and children. It is planned to have a central point in each part of the county where clothing can be assembled and later moved to a receiving station in Princeton, location of which is to be announced later.

"As women in the homes will, in the final analysis, be responsible for getting out clothing which can be spared, it is desired to have representative women enlisted in this campaign and serving on a committee to have charge of sorting the clothing donated by Princeton and Caldwell county people," Mr. Lowry stated.

A chairman will be elected this week and a city and county wide organization effected to reach as many homes as possible, in accordance with instructions from United Nations Relief headquarters, it was announced.

Stork Catches Soldier's Wife On Highway And Forces Ambulance Stop

(By Associated Press)

The stork caught up with Mrs. Craver, wife of Pvt. Julius C. Craver, Fort Knox in the early morning darkness near West Point, forcing the ambulance to stop.

Caldwell Draftees Are Caught By Flood At Louisville Tuesday

Only a few of 31 Caldwell county young men, in Louisville Tuesday for pre-induction draft examinations, were back home Wednesday, a fortunate inducement reported. Several efforts were made by the Selective Service officials at Louisville to get the men home via bus but flooded roads forced a return to the city. C. A. Woodall, Jr., Cooper Crider and one or two others managed to get back home, the others advising their families they "would sit the flood out at Louisville" unless some special arrangements in their behalf could be made.

Chairman Optimistic "If Public and Workers Continue To Cooperate"; Seven Rural Communities Exceed Their Quotas

Donations to the Red Cross War Fund had reached a total of $4,120.84 Wednesday morning, Chairman Thos. J. Simmons reported, expressing himself as greatly pleased with cooperation of the public and workers in the canvass thus far.

"If the workers remain constant in their efforts and the people continue to give generously, I have every expectation the county will reach $7,500, the amount asked of us in this campaign," Mr. Simmons said.

Complete reports from seven of 53 rural communities in which leaders were asked to conduct an active canvass indicate the Red Cross appeal is meeting the most generous response in history among the people of the county, outside of Princeton, the chairman said.

Dulaney, with a quota of $35, raised $49.50; White School, quota, $75, gave $80.25; Friendship, quota, $50, raised $89.25; Union Grove, quota, $25, gave $43.50; Hollingsworth, quota, $50, gave $64.25; Cross Roads, quota, $25, gave $36.30; and Groom's Lane, quota, $45, gave $50.50.

Mr. Simmons is anxious that all leaders, in city and county, make a report, whether complete or partial, not later than 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon. He hopes to have the quota for the county in hand then, or at least in sight, he said.

The Gradatim and Booklovers clubs had charge of four downtown booths Monday and reported total donations of $1,069.24. Tuesday the booths were supervised by the Woman's Club and the American Legion Auxiliary, with $331.23 reported.

Fredonia citizens had contributed $482 up to Tuesday night, Seth Wigginton, chairman, reported. School pupils began making a house-to-house canvass in Fredonia Wednesday and the total there is expected to be appreciably swelled by donations they collect, Mr. Wigginton said.

A list of donors who gave $5 or more since The Leader's last report, compiled by Chairman Simmons, follows: $200, Princeton Hosiery Mills; $150, Kentucky Whip and Collar Company; $75, Cumberland Manufacturing Company; $50, Princeton Creamery, Mrs. William S. Rice, William S. Rice.

County Agent's Column

By J. F. Graham

Recent letter to poultry station flock owners, Dr. Insko, Jr., in charge of husbandry of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics, makes some timely points, and points out the following and value in raising them on to the reading column:

It is certain to have your house located some distance from the old flock since the possibility of disease being to the chicks is smaller when the two are separated. Mental results have shown keeping chicks but also in the life of the pullet flock all winter. Experimental results have indicated the pullets were raised away from the old flock during their first year returned $1.90 per pullet.

The pullets raised with the flock returned 77c per pullet. These returns were above the cost and loss of the pullets. These figures are based on more than one year and represent an exact return but they do not show the great difference in results when chickens are raised from and with flocks.

Pasture should be provided for the growing stock and now to begin to think this. Experiments have shown that pullets on green grass will need from 10 to 15 square feet of grass and grain than those that are raised either in pens or on bare ground. The pasture must be maintained and growing. For this purpose, bluegrass, while an excellent feed as long as it is maintained, will not solve all of the problems. A mixture containing

News From The Past

News representing lives, hopes, dreams and ambitions of those who made up the populace of Princeton and Caldwell county almost 40 years ago and recorded nowhere but in the yellowed files of Twice-A-Week Leader of those years will be published as a regular Leader feature. The articles are reproduced just as the Princeton reporters, shortly after the turn of the century, wrote them.

Princeton, Ky. Feb. 25, 1916. Judge George G. Harralson went to Paducah yesterday on legal business.

Several different types of pasture grass or legume is preferable. Among those that will be of value are red top, lespedeza, bluegrass, alfalfa, red clover and timothy. For summer pasture, Sudan grass which is clipped occasionally to keep it down to 4 to 6 inches is excellent.

During the spring months the old hens will need 20% less feed if they get good green pasture. Provision should be made for pasture for both the hens and pullets if it has not been done already.

and family, Mrs. W. C. Waggener and daughter, Miss Marion, were in Louisville last week attending the great photo-play, "The Birth of a Nation."

THE GARDEN

By John S. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics

Although generally considered as equipment only professional vegetable growers may use, a modified hotbed can do a splendid job for a home gardener.

Regulation hotbed sash is 3 feet wide and 6 feet long, but patched, discarded window sash may be used to cover a bed made its size. The writer has used with splendid results a one-pane sash, 30 by 32 inches.

The "regulation" heating material is fresh horse manure, but poultry manure mixed with tree leaves does just as well. The procedure is to dig the pit to fit the sash, and 18 inches deep, lining it with plank to prevent caving. Then, a 6-inch layer of loose leaves is laid, wet down and tramped tight. Next comes a 2-inch layer of poultry manure and one of leaves, the whole soaked and tramped, and so on to bring the surface to within 4 inches of the ground level, making 4 layers of manure. The last soaking and tramping should leave the bed squishy. A 4-inch layer of good soil completes the bed, and the sash is placed.

In 24 hours the water will have begun sinking, and heating will start. After the temperature has dropped to about 80 degrees, the bed is ready to use. A regulation bed for producing cabbage plants is started about January 15; as this bed is to be used only for "growing out," for one month, frostproof slips procured from southern plant men, the date for making it lies with the gardener. Frostproofs are now on the market from growers, Golden Acre and Copenhagen, round-heads, are freed of worm damage than the pointed sorts, and are longer-standing without bursting. Incidentally, some plant growers now furnish the wilt-resistant sort, Wisconsin All-Seasons.

This bed may be used for producing early tomatoes. If southern plants of Break O'Day or Valiant are set in it about April 1, the plants will be in bloom at garden-setting time, May 10, and there should be ripe fruit in late June. Like-wise, California Wonder or Ruby Giant pepper plants may be set to spend 40 or 50 days in the bed, to yield ripe fruit weeks ahead of plants handled the ordinary way.

Eggplants can be stepped up a month by getting Black or New York Improved kinds by April 1, and growing them in a hotbed until setting time. Yield may be trebled this way.

The management of a hotbed is simple. Watering should be done to keep growing going uninterrupted. Fresh air should be admitted when there is any "sweating" on the glass. The best time is usually just after noon, and the best way is to prop up the sash's edge AWAY from the prevailing breeze. Usually, 30 minutes suffice, but watch should be kept not to cool the bed any more than is absolutely necessary. Tomatoes, peppers and eggplants are "warm" crops that may chill dangerously at even 50 degrees.

As of Jan. 1, 1945, there were about 42,000 nurses in the U. S. Army.

"The Farm For Me"

"The farm for me from now on," said John Payne of the Disputanta community, Rockcastle county, as he returned after working a year in an ordnance depot at Richmond, Ky. The first purchase in his farming operations was a registered Guernsey bull calf.

During early tomatoes. If southern plants of Break O'Day or Valiant are set in it about April 1, the plants will be in bloom at garden-setting time, May 10, and there should be ripe fruit in late June. Like-wise, California Wonder or Ruby Giant pepper plants may be set to spend 40 or 50 days in the bed, to yield ripe fruit weeks ahead of plants handled the ordinary way.

Eggplants can be stepped up a month by getting Black or New York Improved kinds by April 1, and growing them in a hotbed until setting time. Yield may be trebled this way.

The management of a hotbed is simple. Watering should be done to keep growing going uninterrupted. Fresh air should be admitted when there is any "sweating" on the glass. The best time is usually just after noon, and the best way is to prop up the sash's edge AWAY from the prevailing breeze. Usually, 30 minutes suffice, but watch should be kept not to cool the bed any more than is absolutely necessary. Tomatoes, peppers and eggplants are "warm" crops that may chill dangerously at even 50 degrees.

Manure, Fertilizer Bring Big Tobacco

Looking into the methods used by W. C. Powell, Oldham county, to produce an average of 2,227 pounds of tobacco to the acre, County Agent Beach Craigmyle found that he piled on manure and fertilizer.

Along with a heavy cost of manure 1,500 pounds of phosphate fertilizer and 500 pounds of 6-8-6 to the acre were turned under. In addition, 250 pounds of complete fertilizer was applied at the row and 150 pounds of ammonium nitrate used to the acre. Despite a rather poor stand because of unfavorable weather at setting time, the 41A tobacco grew out well. After the tobacco was cut, vetch and wheat were seeded as a cover and green manure crop to turn under this spring, when tobacco again will be grown.

Easter Campaign To Aid Children Has $150,000 Goal

Society For Cripples Asks Funds To Care For Unfortunates, Build Convalescent Home

"Upward of 40,000 members of the Kentucky Society for Crippled Children again will participate in the Easter fund raising drive from March 1 through April 1," Bart N. Peak, Lexington, State president of the society, announced this week. Goal for the drive is $150,000, Dr. J. J. Rosenthal is Caldwell county chairman.

Discussing the work of the society, H. V. McChesney, Frankfort, State chairman of the Easter Campaign, said it organizes county committees to sponsor clinics, provide transportation, engages in social welfare work, and purchases artificial appliances. Also, Mr. McChesney pointed out, it supplements federal and state appropriations to the Kentucky Crippled Children Commission for direct service to crippled children and pays rent for the commission as well as its own organization. The society also finances treatment of certain plastic, neurological and over-age cases ineligible for the commission's service.

As in the past, several methods will be used in raising supporting fund. Personal solicitation and special gift divisions will go into action March 1, and the mailing of Easter Seals will begin March 12. In many communities an Easter Lily Tag Sale is scheduled for March 31. Mr. McChesney said it was

You Give to the Worthiest of Causes when You Give to Your Red Cross

And if you should stop to ask the reason why—the answers are manifold! For this great army, your Red Cross, stretches out a hand of mercy to millions all over the world—soldiers, sailors, marines and civilians. A hand that collects millions of pints of life saving plasma . . . a hand that delivers millions of sustaining food packages to dejected allied war prisoners . . . a hand that delivers heartening emergency messages from loved ones and to loved ones . . . a hand that brings food and clothing to helpless victims of a ruthless war. Yes, this is your Red Cross that does all these things and more! For over a war-torn world its hand of compassion offers hope and comfort to wrecked souls and maimed bodies. Can an organization whose every fibre is directed at aiding and giving solace to the war weary be denied? Look to your heart for the answer.

Without your generous contributions the Red Cross could not carry on its magnificent and humanitarian work. Your son, husband brother or sweetheart would be without the plasma needed to save his life . . . without the recreation that keeps up his morale . . . without those important little things that bring a semblance of home into the horrors of battle. Give it a little thought, Mr. Smith—and let your heart write your check.

Predict Continued Poultry Demand

Poultry will be greatly in demand and should bring ceiling prices throughout this spring and early summer, according to a statement issued by the Department of Markets and Rural Finance of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics at Lexington.

Scarcities of all meats, high consumer incomes, and rationing restrictions have created a strong civilian demand for poultry. The army also wants this kind of meat, and requires that all poultry in the commercial broiler producing sections and 100 percent of all canned and boned chicken and turkey be set aside for government account. Much of the poultry purchased on government orders doubtless will come from current marketings, and so reduce supplies for civilian use.

While all kinds of poultry are used by the armed forces, broilers especially are in demand for in army hospitals and at convalescent centers. This demand may absorb much of the available supply this spring, and as a result ceiling price levels for broilers are well assured for the next several months. With feed supplies more plentiful, poultrymen in Kentucky may want to give consideration to an early crop of broilers, especially in areas where their products can be made available to hospitals and army procurement agents.

Homemakers Get Aid From College

More than 116,880 women in Kentucky are using improved homemaking methods as a result of the home demonstration program carried on in 1944 by the State College of Agriculture and Home Economics, according to Miss Myrtle Weldon, State leader.

Trained home economists are now serving as home demonstration agents in 64 counties of the state. Although they work principally through organized homemaker's clubs with a membership of 14,985 women, they also reach hundreds of homemakers through community and county-wide demonstrations and meetings, and through personal contacts.

Like an endless chain, easier and better methods of homemaking reach from the college to all parts of the state, Miss Weldon said. Local leaders of clubs, or women receiving assistance directly from the home agent or from specialists at the college, pass on that information to their club groups, who in turn relay it to their neighbors and friends.

Many different branches of homemaking were given attention during the past year. Because food was considered of special importance as a war measure, 59,216 women received information on the planning of meals and on other phases of that subject. Care of clothing, construction and conservation methods interested 34,676 women, while 21,594 homemakers learned how to make their homes more attractive at low cost. Management of their homes to save time and labor was studied by 32,315 women.

The home demonstration program also supplied information to thousands of women who used it in exterior beautification of their home grounds, in gardening, poultry raising, butter making, home butchering, food conservation, first aid and home nursing.

Nitrate Steps Up Burley Production

Duncan Ellis and Rudy Hendon of Calloway county report increasing returns from tobacco, $41 and $37 an acre, respectively, by applying ammonium nitrate to the soil. They cooperated with the Kentucky College of Agriculture and the Tennessee Valley Authority in testing the value of ammonium nitrate.

In McCracken county 15 farmers cooperating with the college and TVA grew an average of 1,250 pounds of burley tobacco to the acre in 1944. Leon Wardford grew 1,950 pounds to the acre.

McCracken county tobacco growers want a burley market in western Kentucky.

College Suggests Trial Of Kudzu

Farmers interested in additional hay and pasture and in controlling erosion might try kudzu, says a statement issued by Dr. E. N. Fergus of the Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics. He believes kudzu has merit, especially on hilly land where erosion has taken place.

Plantings made this spring would give farmers a chance to learn about the habits and value of kudzu, and also provide crowns for new plantings, it suggested.

Kudzu started by setting seedlings or crowns in early springs. Plants are set 3 to 7 feet apart each way. On land that can be cultivated, plants may be set close together in rows 7 to 10 feet apart and corn grown between the rows.

Three small fields of kudzu are being grown at the Robinson Experiment Substation at Quicksand, Breathitt county, all on steep hillsides. One field, 15 years old, furnishes grazing for at least one cow to an acre and a half from about June 1 to killing frost.

On a second field, where corn had been grown several years, three years were required to cover the hillside and control erosion. The third field, which is on grassland, was established by digging hills and planting crowns and then hoeing around them for one year. The kudzu is spreading and gradually taking the grass.

A list of seedling dealers and further information about kudzu growing can be had at county agent offices.

RETONGA FAR AHEAD OF ANYTHING HE TRIED

He Felt So Run Down He Could Hardly Look After His Business; Suffered Severe Pains In Legs And Could Eat And Sleep But Little. Feels Fine Now.

"I enjoy my food, sleep well, and feel good for the first time in three or four years, and I have Retonga to thank for it," declares Mr. Sam E. Logsdon, widely-known business man of Rockport, Ind. Mr. Logsdon is proprietor of the Rainbow Flower Shop, and operates three bulb farms. He is an active Kiwanian, a student of Shakespeare and Burns, and an author in his own right. Discussing Retonga, Mr. Logsdon stated:

"I felt so weak and rundown it was an effort to look after my business. For years I had to resort to use of a strong laxative practically every night or constipation would cause me to suffer from fullness, and sometimes dizziness. Excruciating pains in my hips made restful sleep almost impossible. I had no appetite and all food seemed to taste the same. Retonga gave me prompt and splendid relief. My appetite now is fine, the pains in my hips are relieved and I sleep peacefully. Retonga also relieved that stubborn constipation. I get up every morning feeling fine and ready for the day's work. Retonga is far ahead of any medicine in my experience."

Retonga is intended to relieve distress due to Vitamin B-1 deficiency, constipation, insufficient flow of digestive juices in the stomach, and loss of appetite. Thousands praise it. Retonga may be obtained at Dawson's Drug Store. —(adv.)

The direction affects all mills operating on the cotton system and producing spun rayon, cotton-rayon mixed or other blended or mixed fiber yarn except cotton-wool blended or mixed yarns. It applies to both sale yarn and integrated mills.

County Telephone Survey Completed

Company Will Interview Rural Residents Who Want Service

A telephone survey, started in Caldwell county in January to determine requirements for telephone service on the farms of the county, has been completed, Hyla Mohon, manager, said this week.

Its completion means the Southern Bell Telephone Company can now begin to make more detailed working plans, which it will carry out as soon as materials and equipment for further rural telephone development are available, according to Mr. Mohon.

One of the next steps to be taken, when materials and equipment become available, will be interviewing residents to determine which of the county's farmers will take telephone service when equipment can be had and construction can be started.

"Our aim is to furnish the rural areas of Caldwell county the very best telephone service possible," Mr. Mohon stated upon completion of the survey. "Actually the Southern Bell farm telephone expansion program was started in 1939, but had to be suspended in mid-1942, because materials and equipment were more urgently needed for war purposes. We look forward to resuming this development just as soon as the demands of the armed forces have been fully met," the local manager said.
